

The Natural Capital Laboratory

A live-test bed for innovative and experimental techniques to monitor, value and communicate environmental & social change

On the 100 acre site in Scotland we are harnessing new technologies to capture data and monitor change - including the use of satellite imagery, drones, camera traps and more.

Our Digital Natural and Social Capital Approach will be interactive, accessible and updated in real-time.

We will communicate these efforts through a range of engaging mediums, including virtual reality and 3D visualisations.