

VALUING NATURE

The World Harbour Project and eco-engineering of coastal infrastructure: a design for life

Katie O'Shaughnessy

PhD student

Plymouth University

School of Biological and Marine Sciences

Coastal defence structures are proliferating What can we do?

Natural

Artificial

Why I am here:

Ecologists must collaborate with engineering & construction companies

fo
us eh a e m
-c

Key data & recommendations are largely not being disseminated to managers & stakeholders

Contents lists available at ScienceDirect

World Harbour Project

Aims:

To enhance ecosystem functioning & develop best management practices